

06 March 2019

Press Release

Natmed Medical Defence Releases its next Ten Takeaways.

Johannesburg February 2019: Natmed Medical Defence (Pty) Ltd, a leading South African Medical Malpractice Insurance Broker, has released the second of Natmed's Ten Takeaways, Informed Consent: "What information must a healthcare practitioner provide?".

Natmed's Top Ten Takeaway series is a first point of reference for busy healthcare practitioners and healthcare facility operators. It is intended to be used in conjunction with the Natmed "What If?" series, Natmed Medical Defence Review and Natmedipedia.

View the latest Ten takeaways online here.

About Natmed Medical Defence (Pty) Ltd: Natmed Medical Defence is a leading South African Medical Malpractice Insurance Broker that has been creating and arranging medical malpractice products in South Africa for over 19 years. As a specialised and leading local organiser of medical malpractice insurance, Natmed is able to protect private medical facilities and practitioners alike and strives to secure affordable indemnity cover, for all specialists and especially for obstetricians, gynaecologists and neurosurgeons, who benefit from their advanced practice and performance management support.

For more information go to www.MedicalDefence.mobi or www.Natmed.mobi for a quote.

Issued by:
Natmed Medical Defence (Pty) Ltd